Jansz, J. The Emotional Appeal of Biolent Video Games, August, 219–241.
Juluri, V. Nonviolence and Media Studies, May, 196–215.
Lapinski, M. K., and Rimal, R. N. An Explication of Social Norms, May, 127–147.
Martins, D. S. Compliance Rhetoric and the Impoverishment of Context, February, 59–77.
Mayer, V. Research Beyond the Pale: Whiteness in Audience Studies and Media Ethnography, May, 148–167.
McComas, K. A. See Besley, J. C.
McCroskey, J. C. Motives and Communibiology's Texts: Whose Motives?, November, 468–474.
Nelson, C. K. A Reaffirmation of the Intent and Accuracy of Classifying Communibiology's Texts, November, 485–494.
Plaisance, P. L. The Mass Media as Discursive Network: Building on the Implications of Libertarian and Communitarian Claims for News Media Ethics Theory, August, 292–313.
Reid, R. Fractured Media Sphere and U.S. Health Promotion: Parsing Cigarettes as an Icon of Flawed Modernity, August, 314–339.
Rimal, R. N. See Lapinski, M. K.
Silva, V. T. In the Beginning Was the Gene: The Hegemony of Genetic Thinking in Contemporary Culture, February, 100–123.
Slack, J. D. Why the Biotechnological Body Matters: Introduction to the Special Issue, February, 5–9.
Soffer, O. The Textual Pendulum, August, 266–291.
Stohl, C. See Bimber, B.
Sullivan, R. An Embryonic Nation: Life Against Health in Canadian Biotechnological Discourse, February, 30–58.
Teboul, JC. B., and Cole, T. Relationship Development and Workplace Integration: An Evolutionary Perspective, November 389–413.
Tracy, S. J., and Trethewey, A. Fracturing the Real-Self Fake-Self Dichotomy: Moving Toward "Crystallized" Organizational Discourses and Identities, May, 168–195.
Tretheway, A. See Tracy, S. J.
Zoller, Heather M. Health Activism: Communication Theory, November, 341–364.